

We are a technology company providing secure and reliable network and communication services for a wide range of businesses and customers. Our network spans across Asia, Australia, Europe and North America, and our unified connectivity platform ensures that our customers receive the same stellar service quality no matter where they connect to or from.

As Junior Sales Engineer in our Belgium team, you will be a subject matter expert, and you will be rewarded as such. You'll be providing market leading connectivity solutions to your clients that will change the way they do business, and we'll provide you with the training and support that'll change your career. Whether it be voice, data or network services, you will provide industry leading technical solutions that truly advance the way our customers do business globally in sales engineer job that'll really take you places

What you'll need to succeed:

- Ability to translate complex customer requirements into compelling solutions.
- Demonstrable technical and product expertise
- Entry level experience of working in IP & Transmission Engineering, technical assistance or configuration support
- Understanding of customer network technologies
- Credible presentation skills
- A willingness to challenge the status quo
- Be Comfortable with pace, change, innovation and decision making

What you'll get in return:

- Excellent salary and benefits
- A dedication to career pathways, development and learning
- Agile working
- Recognition Programmes
- Diverse, global environment
- Socially responsible environment and volunteering opportunities

Your new company:

Colt people makes things happen. They look to build an environment where people feel empowered, where they do not wait for someone to give them permission, they see barriers as something to break through, not a reason to stop. With a vision to become the most customer oriented business in our industry, and a mission to be the leading provider of high bandwidth services across the globe, there has never been a more exciting time to join Colt.

We are growing fast and so if you'd like to apply for this junior sales engineer job in Belgium then please apply today

Contact details:

Adrianna.sosnowska@colt.net

+44 20 7863 5776

Connect with me on LinkedIn