

SENIOR .NET DEVELOPER GENT, BELGIUM

Our Smart Online Reporting team is looking for an enthusiastic and driven colleague. You will be part of our BI team and build our next generation of online dashboards delivering powerful and visual insights on a variety of platforms. You are a creative and driven web developer and ready for a (new) challenge.

Join our enthusiastic team as a .NET developer.

Create meaning and value

You will be responsible for projects which consist of the design, creation, development and implementation of our web reporting tools. This mainly involves working with SQL and .NET.

With your understanding of the data, contact with the client and strong expertise in .NET and SQL, you are the right person to deliver high quality online dashboard solutions.

Though the focus of this role is back-end development (we do have front-end developers), interest in and experience with front-end programming would be a big plus.

This is not a pure IT/web developing role. It is about providing business insights through building visually strong and easy to use online platforms that can be used in executive meetings to aid decision making.

This role is for our Belgian office, near Ghent.

Your proficiencies

- Back-end development of web tools
- .NET framework
- ASP.NET
- C#
- SQL server

Your interests

Interest in / experience with front-end design / development would be a plus

- HTML5
- CSS
- JavaScript
- jQuery
- Angular

Your background

- eager to learn
- customer-focused
- creative thinker
- higher education degree in ICT and/or up to 5 years' of experience as a .NET developer
- experience with front-end design/development would be a plus
